REACTION

Brands have always relied on advertising vehicles to communicate with their target audiences. This traditional advertising model is built to ultimately direct the consumer path to purchase back toward the brand. In order to measure success, brands rely on performance metrics to evaluate the strength of the selected advertising channel. The recent PPAI (Promotional Products Association International) Consumer Study employed five key performance metrics to evaluate the role of promotional products as an advertising channel. These metrics were designed to capture quantifiable results throughout the consumer path to purchase.

The result: promotional products are built to leverage the greatest reach, drive recall and fiercely resonate to engage the best reaction among consumers, relative to any other advertising channel.

REACH

89% of consumers have received a promotional product in the last six months

RESONANCE

82% had a more favourable impression of the brand

RECALL

Who Recalls What Best?

Millennials best recalled social media.

Generation Xers best recalled directional calls to action, or statements with definitive instructions.

Baby Boomers best recalled points of reference such as website domains or contact information.
